We Need to Talk

by Prof Jonathan Jansen

'Ways of speaking can help heal or they can provoke; they can inflame passions or settle nerves.'

Professor Jonathan Jansen is fast becoming a household name in South Africa, albeit sometimes a controversial one. In this collection of articles previously published in The Times Jansen highlights the issues that confront our country – the issues we need to talk about. With humour, humility, occasional anger and a good dose of common sense Jansen discusses education, race and identity, the state of our nation, leadership and even sport. When asked what the secret of his controversial columns is, he answers: 'A good column upsets half of your readers; the secret is that it should be a different half each time.'

Jansen brings us a vision of the South Africa we can build, if only we pull together and work to heal the wounds of the past.

A book to make you stop and think... and then talk about his ideas around the dinner table, in the staffroom, in the classroom or on the bus.

TV KIDS' IN THE NEWS

Presenting the youth

Nosipho Zwane is a 12-year-old radio and TV presenter who is taking the broadcasting world by storm. She was recently chosen by the American TV network, ABC, as one of four child heroes in the world and a documentary is now being made about her.

Nosipho started her radio career at the age of seven and has gone from strength to strength ever since. She is currently the presenter of Paws and Claws for YoTV. She is the youngest person in South Africa to have interviewed singer Leona Lewis and she also co-hosted a function which John Travolta and his wife Kelly Preston attended. Catch her on SABC 1 where she fills various roles and watch this space. This girl is going far!

Do you know of any children? Let us know. Write to ReadRight, Saxonwald, 2132 or e-mail

Colour me

Kgamia Shazi was a proud winner of a colouring competition held at Primary School in Johannesburg. Boo, the environmentally aware character from the children's TV program Me and My visited the school to help plant an olive tree and to judge the importance of saving the environment. Boo also spoke to the pupils about the importance of saving the environment. Boo asks all of you to make a BOO-tiful one and do your part. Pic: Kgamia Shazi, with Boo, prize and picture

Catch Boo & Me 2 at 07:40 on SABC 1 and TopTV channel 255
